Coney Island Jockey Club Threatens to Run Rich Stake Events With Public Barred Unless All Gambling Ceases.

The Coney Island Jockey Club will hold its autumn meeting Aug. YONKERS, Aug. 2.—Pinkola, an added 29-Sept. 12, as advertised, but "if it is found to be impossible to stop starter, with J. Butler, the new jockey the professional betting the gates will be closed to the public and the sensation up, won the $15,000 Empire stakes only run off."

This was the decision reached at a meeting of the Executive Com- son. Frank Gill, coming like a streak mittee held at the Jockey Club rooms in the Windsor Arcade this morn- where, was second, by a head in front suicide. ing. It was a strictly executive meeting, with a full attendance of officers of the Coney Island Club, and it was later stated by an official That's a finish for you. Many will be puzzled to know what is meant by the term "professional betting." This was afterward explained "all betting."

"Do you mean that if there should be similar betting to that now in progress or said to be in progress at local tracks the gates will be closed to the public?" "That is just what is intended by our action. There will be no bluff work sbout the matter. "You may also say that the Coney teland Jockey Club officials have never thought of repudiating any of its obiigations to the horsemen. In other words, we have never thought of calling off the autumn meeting. It has been simply a matter of stopping the betting. "There will be eleven days' racing at Sheepshead Bay track during the two weeks, except on the two Fridays inovernight handicaps will be continued and the size of the purses will be the same as in the earlier meeting this Season.

"The Futurity will be the opening feature of the meeting next Saturday, and the size of this and other stakes will, as I said before, be of the advartised sum."

It has been stated in turf circles that the club lost $150,000 on its spring meeting because of the passage of the Harty Agnew law, which curtailed betting. This, however, had nothing to do with the meeting to-day, as it was stated later that the club intended at whatever loss to carry out its obligations to the horsemen in regard to stake events.

On the other hand, the real issue was 180 and 190 and 19 loss to carry out its obligations to the horsemen in regard to stake events.

On the other hand, the real issue was over the question of holding a meeting where odium might be cast upon the as in the raids during the Brighton Beach meeting. This was very pojectionable to Mr. Vanderbilt and other is the track. owners in the track.
